Page 10 proposed Cricket Committee Development Plan

As envisaged at the time of the last revision of the Development Plan in 2006 it is now appropriate to review the Plan and report on present arrangements with regard to the running of the County Club, especially taking into account the changes in the economy, banking, administration and the need for succession planning.

The existing plan commented "As a development plan is a rolling organic creation each committee under the present and future approved development plan should approach their duties in a similar way. This would therefore require the creation of the relevant policies and guide lines by each committee."

It was considered that the proposals put forward in this regard had not been fully implemented and that reinforcement of these requirements, together with changes through the years, was required. The general committee policies will need to be created and approved by the main committee to ensure that they are in line with the overall needs and requirements of the County Club, the MCCA and the ECB.

The creation of individual committee development plans and budgets for each committee is still considered to be of considerable importance as a planned structure to enhance the workings of the committees and a means of providing the support necessary to the County Cricket club as well as providing useful information to the Finance and Marketing Committees in order that they can plan their own brief accordingly.

It is therefore considered, as a priority, that every committee produce their own development plan and that thereafter at each meeting (main and committees) the relevant Development Plans and budgets are always on the agenda for discussion and updating to ensure proper progress is maintained. The individual committees should always include a report on their plan progress at each of their own meetings and at each general committee meeting as under the existing agenda structure.

The individual committees of the County Club organisation considered suitable and beneficial for this approach are noted below. The annotations are purely to indicate some of the benefits that can be gained if each has its own structured policy and plan:

The Cricket Committee – to provide detailed planning for cricketing activities.

The Finance Committee – to aid wider and more detailed financial planning to enable the general committee to pursue its goals.

The Marketing Committee – to provide a more elevated level of quality sponsorship and corporate associations including expanded usage of the website and the roadshow

The Membership Committee – to improve Member relations & increase numbers under the auspices of the Hon. Membership Secretary.

The Liaison Committee – to improve the relationship between the County Club and all Cheshire Cricket Clubs through greater awareness and sharing of information.

Cheshire Cricket Board - representation through a Representative of the Committee on the Board.

MCCA and ECB contacts - through the office of Chairman and Secretary and contact at Home and Away matches between active committee members.

General Committee along with all other Committees - to create, develop & continually improve contact inter county (e.g. Lancs. CCC), inter league, club and youth cricket throughout Cheshire.

The Development Plan sets out in its Cricket Committee section the policies for the next say four years. This time period is considered suitable in all the circumstances. To go beyond four years is unnecessary since, in every likelihood, there could be further requirements or changes from the MCCA or ECB within or toward the end of the period which would require change or amendment. It was considered sensible that all the proposed committee development plans should follow the same time scale.

Whilst the creation of any development plan outside the normal office environment may seem, on face value, a little heavy or 'over the top' it has become increasingly evident that those organisations with a policy and a structured approach create a healthy forward looking and achieving body. Targets and policies can readily be designated and time scales created for achievements that are considered sensible producing a positive reaction for the betterment of the organisation. A County or Local Cricket Club is no different and is equally capable of benefiting from this approach.

The ECB has adopted this approach throughout all its cricketing organisations. Above all, however, the development plans need to be regularly monitored to ensure progress is maintained and directions and policies followed. It is all too easy to let a development plan fall in to disarray. The creation of the plan is the first step – the difficult and brave step is following the plan regularly and making alterations along the way where some achievements or policies are found lacking or achieved earlier than expected. In those cases new objectives are set to ensure that a forward direction is always maintained. Once a plan is created it needs to be worked – it goes nowhere unless it is guided! Hence the need to include all Committees on the Agenda for each General Committee meeting.

The increased representation, as suggested in the 2006 review, of Cheshire playing cricketers in the County side has brought about considerable improvement in team spirit and a generally favourable improvement in the stature of the County team in the eyes of the cricketing public within the county. This policy should therefore be continued although in an ideal world the overall policy wish would be that all cricketers playing for Cheshire would be playing in Cheshire. The reality is, as we all know, not as simple.

What we do know is that there are talented and suitable cricketers playing in Cheshire who would like to play for Cheshire. General standards have increased across the County. The Clubs, the County Cricket Board and the Cheshire Cricket League Committee and all others involved are to be congratulated for that.

The review suggests that we retain the squad selection policy which acknowledges this situation and indicates that Cheshire County Cricket Club should, wherever possible, field a team of players which are currently playing their cricket in Cheshire. It acknowledges that there may be some local difficulty with this from time to time and therefore suggests that the approved minimum of eight players playing in Cheshire continues to be used as the guide.

The plan also reaffirms that this policy should be supported by the appointment, when and where practicable, of a suitable player coach who will be able by his character and playing ability to further enhance the qualities of those representing the County as well as those whose future hopes are to represent the County. The major challenge will be one of finance so some sharing with a Premier League club could be considered.

The income of the County Club is, apart from the funds received through the MCCA, reliant on the proceeds from locally raised funds through membership, sponsorship, 200 club and other donations. It is considered that the income of the County Club needs to be increased considerably to avoid over reliance on funds from the ECB and advises that a full reassessment is undertaken by the County Committee along with others if felt necessary and prudent. A Corporate Membership with benefits was introduced in 2014.

At present there is an historical reliance on the host club to find sponsors to fund County matches played at their club. The host club is now encouraged to raise its own funding as a "reward" for the effort expended on hosting the match. The County Club is thus now required to organise its own sponsorship support for all home matches ensuring that the host club is happy with any of the “on ground” activities that this may require.

Cheshire is a wealthy county and ‘whole county representation’ in the form of sponsorship should be actively pursued. Other current fund raising activities could also be extensively improved upon through proper structuring. These would be policy proposals for the Marketing committee to take on board.

Personnel Consideration needs to be given as to the optimum size of the General Committee to provide a balance between providing an effective and efficient administration but with sufficient personnel to undertake the required roles. This objective should encompass consideration as to how to provide an opportunity for those, with the requisite skills, willing to be involved in the County’s affairs, although not all would necessarily need to be Members of the General Committee. In this way the aims of the County Club can be achieved and the improvement of the contact with the cricketing grass roots will also be achieved and maintained.

Ideally, there should be an understanding that Officers and/or Members of the Committee need not necessarily have to serve in any one position for too long a time, so as to encourage others to become involved. This has to be balanced by the practical reality of identifying a suitable supply of personnel coupled with the need to avoid losing a critical level of expertise and experience. Change for the sake of change is no advantage if it leads to poorer administration.

Finance: Each sub-committee will have to apply for a working budget for each year so that proper assessments of expenditure and costs as well as their needs can be assessed and fed in to the overall scheme.

The reporting of detailed financial information and the method and viability of paying individual expenses to players and officials should be continually examined.

The 200 Club: The promotion and points of sale need to be increased across the county to take advantage of the potential improvement of relations with clubs and members and to maximise the potential income that this Club can raise.

Membership: The membership provides a stable income that has not grown to any degree over the years. It seems likely that if the position of the members is elevated through better information and an improvement in contact throughout the year that this could well lead to an increase in numbers. This may also justify an increase in membership subscriptions in due course! Increased use of electronic communications may help to give Members “Value for money”.

Web site: There is a need to expand further the use of the web site. This so far has been a growing success used more each year and being gradually improved upon. It is considered that greater benefit financially could be obtained from this source by introducing subscription based information for general use but using the cricketing network as a basis for user confidence. Online facilities for the sale of RoadShow leisure wear and Cricketing Kit are being assessed before being hopefully processed for members’ use. The flow of information on a variety of matters relevant to the County Club is being actively introduced and has, indeed, started in a small way. Hopefully this will lead to greater involvement across the membership and general cricketing public. The use of the social contact methods of twitter, facebook etc were evident as a plus factor during 2013 with an increasing activity as the season reached its winning climax. It is important we keep this going in a positive way!
